

English Internal Internships

Spring 2025

The Spring 2025 application deadline is 11:59 P.M. on Sunday, Oct. 13th.

Apply through the internship portal here:

<https://english.indiana.edu/forms/internship-application.html>

Application

- Be prepared! Talk with a Walter Career Center Peer Coach at Career Studio drop-ins or upload your resume for critique here:
<https://careers.college.indiana.edu/about/explore-our-center/career-studio/index.html>
- Don't have a resume? Find out how to create one along with lots of other helpful career guidance here:
<https://careers.college.indiana.edu/career-prep-outcomes/career-planning-guide/index.html>

Accepting an offer

When you receive an internship offer, you must forward that offer by email to ugeng@indiana.edu to get permission to register for ENG-X 473 credits.

Funding

Internship funding is available through the Walter Career Center and Hutton Honor College (you need not be a Hutton student to apply).

- Walter Career Center funding:
<https://careers.college.indiana.edu/jobs-internships/internships/internship-scholarships/index.html>
- Hutton Honors College Internship Grant for Juniors and Seniors (you do not need to be a Hutton student to apply):
<https://hutton.indiana.edu/funding/grants/preprofessional-experience.html>

Administrative Internship, IUB Arts and Humanities Council Student Liaison/Assistant to the Interim Executive Director of Arts and Humanities

Spring 2025

Undergraduate English majors are eligible to serve as assistant to the Interim Executive Director of Arts and Humanities, Jon Kay. The assistant will work closely with Professor Kay and the Arts and Humanities Council staff to support programming at the Cook Center for Public Arts and Humanities as well as popular campus programs such as First Thursdays, the Granfalloon, and other public arts and humanities projects.

Professor Kay is seeking mature, professionally-minded interns with leadership skills and a love of the arts and humanities, who are outgoing and comfortable working with both faculty and students. Internship responsibilities include event planning and publicity, the creation of website content, management of social media, and editing of the arts and humanities blog. Interns will need to balance their time between individual assignments and contributions to group projects with the Cook Center's student team.

The intern is expected to work a total of approximately 150 hours over the course of the semester (~10 hours per week) and eligible for up to 3 hours of course credit in ENG-X 473.

To be eligible for this internship, you must have a major GPA of 3.0 or better, and must have 12 credits in English at the 200-level or above, including L202/L260. If you wish to apply, upload a letter of application, a resume, and two short writing samples to the internship application link at the top of this form. In the letter you should mention any previous administrative experience, your coursework in English, your reasons for being interested in the internship, and any experience with public events. Please also list your class standing, campus address, telephone number, and the names of one or two professors as references.

Administrative Internship, College of Arts and Humanities Institute

Spring 2025

Please reach out to the internship provider for the most updated information about this internship.

Undergraduate English majors are eligible to serve as interns for the College Arts & Humanities Institute (CAHI). The Institute provides research funding for faculty and graduate students, and organizes several events throughout the year, including reading groups, symposia, and guest lectures by prominent writers and artists (recent speakers include Margaret Atwood, Nikole Hannah-Jones, George Saunders, Terrance Hayes, and more).

Interns will assist with event planning and logistics; publicizing CAHI-sponsored/-related events via social media and across campus; developing, compiling, and proofreading content for CAHI's website and promotional materials, including CAHI's biweekly newsletter and annual report on the year ahead; and design of promotional materials (annual report, posters, etc.). In addition to CAHI, this position provides assistance to the Renaissance Studies Program and the Center for Theoretical Inquiry in the Humanities.

Ideal candidates should show a willingness to delve into multiple projects with an eye toward detail, and be comfortable with dealing with the public. We are looking for someone who can develop, maintain, and grow our online presence with a unique, consistent, and engaging voice. Experience with Twitter, Facebook, and Instagram desired; experience with design software a plus. The intern is expected to work a total of approximately 150 hours over the course of the semester and eligible for up to 3 hours of course credit in ENG-X 473.

To be eligible for this internship, you must be pursuing an English BA, you must have a College and major GPA of 3.0 or better and must have 12 credits in English at the 200-level or above, including L202 or L260, by the end of the current semester. If you are interested, upload a letter of application and resume to the internship application link at the top of this form. In the letter you should mention any relevant experience, your coursework in English, and your reasons for being interested in the internship. Please also list your class standing, campus address, telephone number, and the names of one or two professors as references.

English Department Publicity and Social Media Intern

Spring 2025

The English Department's Publicity and Social Media interns are charged with increasing the department's visibility through social media and advertising. Responsibilities include: promoting English department events and initiatives; facilitating alumni connections; building community among English affiliates through sustained and engaging social media presence; devising initiatives to inspire interest in English courses and events; and assisting the Director of Undergraduate Studies in developing and promoting programming for English majors and minors.

Creativity, initiative, and professionalism are crucial to success in this role. The Publicity and Social Media interns will be ready to commit to consistent, inventive development of the English department's online presence across platforms. Experience with Instagram, TikTok, and Canva are highly recommended. Strong writing skills are required.

An intern is expected to work a total of approximately 100 hours over the course of the semester (~6 hours per week) to be eligible for up to 2 hours of ENG-X 473 course credit.

To be eligible for an internship, you must have a College and major GPA of 3.0 or better, and you must have completed 12 credits in English at the 200-level or above, including L202 or L260. If you are interested, upload a letter of application and resume to the internship application link at the top of this form. In your letter of application, please mention any relevant experience and coursework, and explain why you are interested in the internship. Please also list your campus address, telephone number, student ID number, and the names of one or two professors as references.

If you have additional questions about this internship opportunity, please contact The Director of Undergraduate Studies, Nikki Skillman, (nskillma@indiana.edu) and Robin Nokes (mrnokes@iu.edu).

Indiana Review

Spring 2025

Founded in 1976, Indiana Review is a national literary magazine dedicated to showcasing the talents of emerging and established writers. We publish “carefully strange” fiction, nonfiction, and poetry of the highest quality. By this we mean writing that surprises while practicing care in its execution—in syntax, image, narrative, and form.

IR interns will work closely with staff editors in completing a variety of tasks connected to the publication process, as well as with the day-to-day business of running a literary magazine. Responsibilities vary depending on where IR is in the production process but may include reading submissions; attending weekly editorial meetings; assisting editors with fact-checking, copyediting, and proofreading; assisting with planning readings and other events; assisting with external correspondence; and helping maintain IR's web and social media presence.

The ideal candidate is detail-oriented, organized, and interested in contemporary literary fiction, nonfiction, and/or poetry. You do not need to be a creative writer to be considered for this position. Up to two interns will be selected for each fall and spring semester. All interns are expected to work a total of approximately 150 hours over the course of the semester (~10 hours per week) to be eligible for up to 3 hours of ENG-X 473 course credit.

To be eligible for an internship, you must have a College and major GPA of 3.0 or better, and you must have completed 12 credits in English at the 200-level or above, including L202 or L260. If you are interested, upload a letter of application and resume to the internship application link at the top of this form. In your letter of application, please explain why you are interested in the internship, and let us know of any relevant experience and coursework. Please also list your class standing, student ID number, and the names of two professors as references. If you have questions about interning for IR, please feel free to email Doug Case, the Assistant Director of Creative Writing, at dpcase@indiana.edu.

Indiana University Writers' Conference

Spring 2025

Undergraduate English majors are eligible to serve as interns for the Indiana University Writers' Conference (IUWC). Three to five interns will be selected for the semester. The conference is one of the oldest and most respected of its kind and brings nationally prominent authors to Bloomington for a week each summer to teach courses and workshops to conference participants. IUWC is again partnering with the IU Arts & Humanities Council, which will hold their Granfalloon—a gathering of musicians, artists, and thinkers—the same weekend as the conference, June 6-9, 2025. Bloomington Handmade Market will also take place that weekend, rounding out a lively summer arts festival, all corresponding (and interacting with) IUWC.

Throughout the spring semester, interns will assist the director and associate director in general conference administration, as well as marketing and promoting the conference through social media, email, and newsletter advertising. Interns will attain professional development and insight into work at an arts organization. Applicants should have some background in creative writing or contemporary writing. Students with social media, web or graphic design, or other specialized tech skills are particularly encouraged to apply (though such experience is not mandatory).

All interns are expected to work a total of approximately 150 hours over the course of the semester (~10 hours per week) to be eligible for up to three hours of ENG-X 473 course credit.

To be eligible for this internship, you must have a College and major GPA of 3.0 or better and must have 12 credits in English at the 200-level or above, including L202 or L260. If you are interested, upload a letter of application and resume (including your year at IU, e-mail address, and telephone number) to the internship application link at the top of this form. The brief letter should outline your interest in creative writing, the internship, and what you hope to get out of the position. The final selection of interns will be made by the staff of IUWC. For further information, please contact the conference director, Bob Bledsoe (robledso@iu.edu)

Victorian Studies

Spring 2025

Undergraduate English majors are eligible to serve as editorial interns for Victorian Studies, the flagship academic journal in the field. IU Press has published Victorian Studies since 1956, and the journal continues to be exclusively run by IU faculty, graduate students, and undergraduate interns. The journal publishes interdisciplinary work by authors all over the world, featuring essays on nineteenth-century literature, social, political, and cultural history, fine arts, the history of science, law, and philosophy. Two interns will be selected for Spring 2025 and will work in our on-campus office. Specific knowledge of the Victorian era is not required to apply.

Students who serve as interns will be responsible primarily for processing submissions to Victorian Studies: corresponding with outside readers, keeping track of the flow of manuscripts, and editing rejection letters. They will gain some experience in the actual production of the journal including proof-reading, editing, and converting drafts into House Style. Interns are also responsible for maintaining Victorian Studies's social media accounts and work creatively to produce an online presence for the journal.

Interns are expected to work six hours per week and are eligible for up to 2 hours of course credit in ENG-X 473.

To be eligible for this internship, you must have a College and major GPA of 3.0 or better and must have 12 credits in English at the 200-level or above, including L202 or L260. If you are interested, upload a sample of academic writing, a resume, and a cover letter to the internship application link at the top of this form. The writing sample may be a paper written for a course. In the letter you should mention any previous experience in journalism or publishing, your coursework in English, and your reasons for being interested in the internship. Please also list your class standing, campus address, email address, telephone number, and student ID number. The final selection of interns will be made by the editors of Victorian Studies.

Indiana University Press

Spring 2025

Please reach out to the internship provider for the most updated information about this internship.

Indiana University Press (IUP) is an international scholarly book and journals publisher, located in Bloomington on the IU campus at the Herman B Wells Library 350 (third floor east), 1320 East Tenth Street.

We acquire, contract, and publish more than 100 new scholarly-academic and trade books each year and publish approximately 40 international scholarly journals in the humanities. Twenty percent of our books are from IU faculty; the balance is from scholars at other institutions around the world.

IU Press offers the following undergraduate internships (some may not be offered in a given semester; see the link below for current options):

- Marketing Design Intern
- Digital Marketing Intern

To be eligible for enrollment in ENG-X 473 for these internships, you must have a College and major GPA of 3.0 or better and must have 12 credits in English at the 200-level or above, including L202 or L260. If you are interested, upload a letter of application and resume to the internship application link at the top of this form. In the letter you should mention any relevant experience and coursework, your reasons for being interested in the internship. Please also list your class standing, campus address, telephone number, student ID number, and the names of one or two professors as references. The final selection of interns will be made by the Editor of each department.

All interns are expected to work a total of approximately 150 hours over the course of the semester (~10 hours per week) to be eligible for up to 3 hours of ENG-X 473 course credit.

You can review the descriptions of the IU Press internships here (although different application instructions and dates appear in this link, English students need to apply by following the instructions above): <https://iupress.org/internships/>